I got to know Chick while he was at the Beckett House. He was a friend of my father's for years. Chick always kept everyone entertained in the evening by playing his harmonica. Dad would always say "how are you doing today Chick?" And he would say, "pretty good for an old man!!!" Those are the things I will remember about Chick.

“ My Grandpa was always smiling. I have such great memories of you and grandma and hanging out at your house following you around the barn, chasing fireflies so many memories to list. My condolences to the entire family. My Father, Lewis, cherished the times he spent with Uncle Chick. I know Dad will miss sharing good times with his brother. And I will miss hearing the stories that they shared. Please know that my prayers are with all of you.

I remember all the good time we had visiting Uncle Chick and Aunt Eileen. There was always room for one more, regardless of a place to sleep and food to eat. Their door was always open. When all of us kids were gather for a reunion or just visiting one another and Uncle Chick's name was mention it would trigger story after story of how one of our favorite uncles would make us laugh. Us boys wanted to be just like him and we bragged to our friends how much Uncle Chick looked like Clark Gable, but much better looking, ha! ha!

I am not sure why I didn't mention Uncle Chick in my last book. I mentioned Uncle Lewis and how he always called me Poncho. But when I think about Uncle Chick and the love and respect he always gave our Grandpa Pressdee, I then realize the foundation of our family was built on this type of respect, love, grace and forgiveness. Thanks to Uncle Chick and how he made our family what it is and how we too can become successful treating others the way we wanted them to treat us.

As Chick's youngest sister and from the depths of my heart I can only say he was the best brother any sister could ask for. He was kind, considerate, thoughtful and generous. Growing up he was the lighting rod in our family. Nothing got to the rest of us unless it went through him first. He was the protector and the big brother and I always stayed on the good side of my big brother. His advise came from deep roots and his knowledge came from first hand experience. I am going to miss my big brother and look forward to seeing him again.
