“ What a huge loss! I'm pleased that I waited to add memories because the first thoughts were of work which were a big part of my career. What I have memories of now come as I ran into him while shopping at Christmas time and he was frustrated going to so many stores and not finding exactly what he had in mind. Another memory is when I went to the hospital to visit a co-worker and ran into him supporting the same person when he said that no one should ever be in the hospital without a person there to support them. Another memory is when he insisted I take days off work to spend with a family member who had been sick as he reminded me that family support is so important. I enjoyed listening to him share about his farm and his favorite animals. He was a unique man who touched my life which I am grateful for. God bless you all.

“ I grew up with Graydon, known only as Butch to me. He was my big cousin and made that clear to me as many times as I forced him to. I admired him and his success. In our later years we shared many memories of the family get togethers. I miss him already What a good man was Butch my big cousin and friend
