“ Aunt Joyce, it was just a few weeks ago that I got to visit with you. It was great spending time with you. Loved binge watching The Chosen with you. I still miss all the times when we were able to go fishing with Mom, Dad, you and Acil. You always had a smile in your voice every time we spoke on the phone. I will miss be able to call you up and talk. Enjoy your time in Heaven. Give Jesus a hug. Love you, Johnny “ Sis, it is with deep sadness that I write this farewell to you. I love you so very much and I will miss you terribly. We had so many good memories together, and I don't think that there was a deeper bond, that of the two of us as sisters. I always look forward to every year when you would come down and visit with me and we would turn up the music and dance in the pool like there was. No tomorrow. I'll really miss those get-togethers with you. I'm glad that you're at peace now and no more suffering. I will always love you sis and never forget you. Your loving sister, Sherry.

“ Grandmothers play an important role in our lives, often offering guidance, wisdom, and unconditional love. Although she may no longer be with us, her memory and spirit will live on in our hearts, and the lessons she taught us will continue to shape who we are. In these moments of loss, it's important to take the time to grieve and remember the positive impact our loved ones have had on us. Love you Always grandma! Lisa Beatty
