“ Dear Dad, I'm sorry that I couldn't make it to your funeral. I'm sure it seemed odd, me being your first-born child and all. But I knew you would understand. Alan could have taken off work, but then we wouldn't have had money for food and rent. We're experiencing tough times in this country, and I'm afraid it's only going to get worse. We're doing the best we can. Thanks for all the good things you taught me while I was growing up and thank you for being a good provider. Thanks to you, I never knew hunger, homelessness or had to go without anything. I have alot of fond memories from my childhood. I hope you are having a wonderful time where you are and I look forward to the day I can give my Daddy a hug and a kiss again. Thank you for understanding why I couldn't be at your funeral. Please tell all of my family members in the Spirit World that I love them and I am trying to find names and dates for my family tree and if they could give me a hand, I would really appreciate it. Love Always, ~~Mary Ellen~~

My heartfelt sympathy to Uncle Leo's children and grandchildren, especially Julie and Maggie. Julie you are truly a blessing and an angel in disguise....your Dad so appreciated and loved all you did for him. That's what daughters do.....your dad and my dad (Uncle Rich) are in heaven looking down on us and saying " we did a good job with those girls of ours" Not to mention that they are having a " cold one" together. Love you xo

Kathy, did Leo still have his rationalizations and calculations for his lottery tickets? :) He made me a manger made out of wood one year for Christmas. And you're right If he wasn't in early we were always wondering about him. Oh Leo, he was one of my favorite customers.

“ I fondly remember Leo from when I used to work at Mr. G's years ago. He came in for lottery tickets, and stuck around to tell stories, and laugh with us. He was such a sweet man. I will always remember his walking in with his cane, and his unmistakable laughter. May your memories help get you through this difficult time. I know he will be missed.
