“ Its funny how you know when you meet a special person. I was probably seven (7) when I was introduced to Mabel. I came out of the movie theater and went into the restaurant to be greeted by this cheerful woman who treated me like she had known me all my life. Everyone else knew Mabel and I was glad I now did too. She was always very nice to me and I appreciated it. Our thoughts and prayers are with the entire Nickels Family.

Respectfully

“ Mabel, a precious lady, a sweetheart, kind, caring, loving, funny, great cook, loved her family, friends, kind to all she met, never an unkind word about anyone. Someone who has left a gaping hole in our life. No one can ever replace her. North Eleventh St will never be the same without her across the street. She had her signal to let us know she was o.k. by turning her porch light on at night and turning it off in the a.m.

She always had an extra egg and always lemons. She taught me to squeeze them and keep tiny jars in the freezer so I would never run out. Greeks sure can't cook without lemons! We both bought them by the dozen when the price was right. We constantly learned from each other. You'd think at our age we'd know it all. But we don't and we can always learn from others who are willing to share. I loved to share certain meals with her that I knew she loved. And vice versa. Twenty-two years with that beautiful shining smile across the street. When she smiled....her eyes lit up. You couldn't help but to smile back! Chris loved to torment her and when she would call on the phone and hear her voice, he would call me and say "It's the pest from across the street." She loved how he teased her. Chris misses Mabel as much as I do. How could you not miss someone like Mabel. I just can't believe she is gone. What a blessing she was in our life. Our life was richer because of her. We will keep the light shining in our hearts and imagine her looking out for us, too. We love you, Mabel. May you rest in peace. We know your memory will forever be eternal. "Zoe sou mas. "

With deepest love and respect, Marie and Chris Lekorenos
